

Any public or private (K – 8) school can earn up to $10,000 per year by collecting box tops from General Mills products and sending them back to the company. As part of school fund-raising efforts across the country, administrators, teachers, and PTA representatives urge students and parents to buy General Mills products so that funds can be “earned” for school expenses.